

Department of Secondary Education
College of Education
Assistant or Associate Professor
Fall 2024

The Department of Secondary Education at California State University, Fullerton, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Secondary Teacher Education – Foundation Level Mathematics with an appointment to begin Fall 2024.

California State University, Fullerton (CSUF) is a minority-serving institution, affirmative action, and equal opportunity employer. CSUF is firmly committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum and fostering an inclusive environment within which students, staff, administrators, and faculty thrive. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences. Individuals advancing the University's strategic diversity goals and those from groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding are particularly encouraged to apply.

CSUF is committed to retaining all faculty and has established affinity groups you can join to support your success.

Position

The Department of Secondary Education in the College of Education at California State University, Fullerton is seeking a tenure track Assistant or Associate Professor of secondary teacher education with expertise and research interests related to Just, Equitable and Inclusive approaches to secondary teacher education generally, and foundational level mathematics (grades 6-10) teacher education specifically. We are seeking an enthusiastic individual committed to promoting just, equitable, and inclusive education to teach in and contribute to leadership in the Single Subject Credential Program: <http://ed.fullerton.edu/seced/>. The primary responsibilities of the person in this position will include the development and teaching of introductory and core courses in Foundational Level Mathematics (FLM) as well as the coordination of the FLM credential program (recruitment, advisement, and support of FLM teacher candidates). Specific courses this person will teach include EDSC 442M Methods of teaching Foundational Level Mathematics; EDSC 449 Foundational Level Mathematics Second Semester Seminar; and EDSC 542M Advanced Methods in Foundational Level Mathematics. In addition, this person may be asked to teach other courses in the Single Subject Credential Program such as EDSC 310, 320, 330, and 340 (program prerequisites) and EDSC 440S (first semester general pedagogy). There may also be opportunities to teach in our 100% online Master of Science in Transformative Teaching in Secondary Education program focused on educational equity and the design of culturally and linguistically sustaining curriculum.

In addition to teaching, this person will also be responsible for producing scholarship and creative works that contribute to the department and the profession commensurate with the requirements for tenure with a specific focus on critical approaches to STEM education (including the examination of power, privilege, and exclusion as well as strategies to disrupt traditional approaches to and narrative of STEM teaching and learning) in the context of demonstrated improvement of K-12 education and/or teacher education. The successful candidate will also be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the department, advise students, serve on committees, and participate in the broader university and disciplinary communities.

CSUF faculty are committed teacher/scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, studios, and individually mentored projects. They teach broadly in the curricula of their departments, advise students, and serve on departmental and university-wide committees. We encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research and/or service that they can contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic communities.

Required Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in Teacher Education, Mathematics Education, or a related field of education from an accredited institution (if ABD, doctorate must be completed by start date);
- Three (3) or more years of full-time public-school teaching experience as a credentialed teacher of mathematics at the upper elementary level and/or secondary level (grades 5-12);
- Scholarship and/or research related to critical approaches to STEM education (including the examination of power, privilege, and exclusion as well as strategies to disrupt traditional approaches to and narrative of STEM teaching and learning) in the context of demonstrated improvement of K-12 education and/or teacher education;
- Demonstrated advocacy for and/or work with communities historically underserved and marginalized by educational policies and practices;
- Demonstrated experience with supporting educators to meet the educational needs of linguistically and culturally diverse adolescents; and
- Ability to interact and work effectively with culturally and linguistically diverse students, staff, and colleagues.

Preferred Qualifications

- Experience working with grades 6-10;
- Record of scholarly publication in peer-reviewed journals;
- Expertise with grant writing and management related to STEM teacher preparation or STEM teacher professional learning;
- National Board Certification;
- Familiarity with California curriculum standards and policies;
- Experience working with multilingual/multicultural communities and evidence of a commitment to honoring plurilingualism and promoting language equity;
- Demonstrated experience in teaching in hybrid and online delivery formats, including use of rich media and interactive strategies; and
- Demonstrated knowledge in named languages other than English (plurilingualism)

- Statement about Just, Equitable, and Inclusive Education (1-2 pages)
 - Diversity is a defining feature of California's past, present, and future. Increasing the diversity of our educators to better reflect the population of California is just one aspect of the College of Education's dedication to just, equitable and inclusive education. Diversity refers to the variety of personal experiences, values, and worldviews that arise from differences of culture and circumstance. Such differences include race, ethnicity, gender, age, religion, language, abilities/disabilities, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, geographic region, and more. All College of Education students leave with a perspective that recognizes, acknowledges, and respects the knowledge and strengths all students bring from their communities. This perspective is known as Just Equitable and Inclusive Education (JEIE) and is evident in all our programs. College of Education students use this perspective to make community-based assets an integral component of curricular and pedagogical development. In this way, our graduates learn to value and draw upon students' backgrounds not only to support them in developing skills leading to success in the broader society, but also as a mechanism to transform our communities. We believe that all faculty and staff who work for the college must share these same commitments. Click here <https://ed.fullerton.edu/jeie/> to learn more about Just, Equitable and Inclusive Education (JEIE).
 - The statement should focus on your commitment to just, equitable and inclusive education and can take several different forms and may address:
 - your contribution to issues of JEIE.
 - how you incorporate issues of JEIE into your teaching materials and methods or in your research.
 - how you have personally experienced issues regarding JEIE.
 - your experiences and/or qualifications that enhance your ability to work with diverse groups.
 - The prompt will be evaluated for what it tells us about your knowledge, application, experience and expertise as it relates to JEIE. The strongest statements will include attention to the intersectionality of JEIE with elements of one's identity.
